Notes from: Nance Register a Book Of Genealogy by: Martin L. "Pete" Nance copyright 1966 Gen PE VII - Pleasant NANCE section contributed by Robert B. NANCE " I believe but cannot prove, that Pleasant was a brother of Harden NANCE, q. v. The two lived very close to each other, and Pleasant named one of his sons Harden. My guess to Pleasant's father would be John, as he named one son John Allen NANCE, The John for his own father and the Allen for his wife's father, Allen BARKER. Then Pleasant's son Elkanah, named a child John Pleasant, which could be for his grandfather and father.

He was a farmer all of his life, and owned land on Home (Holms) Creek , near Axton, at Boxwood, VA, which is near the Henry-Pittsylvania-Rockingham NC line. After the Civil War he moved to Montgomery County, VA, then across the New River into Pulaski County, VA. Most of his children followed him. He purchased land on the New River, several miles from Radford. Most of it is now covered by waters of Claytor Lake. After his death his wife lived on alone at the farm. She died a few years later. Both were buried on the farm.

Martinsville Bulletin, May 15, 1979:

ELDERLY COUPLE SHOT TO DEATH

By Jay Barker, Bulletin Staff Writer

An elderly Axton man apparently shot to death his bedridden wife and then turned his 12-gauge shotgun on himself Monday in Henry County's second murder-suicide in three days. But police refused to rule out the possibility that a stranger may have been involved until laboratory tests are finished.

Authorities said Rorrer J. Barker, 84, and his 82-year-old wife, Clara Nance Barker, were found dead about 2 p.m. Monday by their daughter, Doris Howerton, who had left the home on Virginia 625 two hours earlier to go shopping in Laurel Park. Mrs. Barker was found in her bed with "massive" head wounds from a shotgun blast, said Lt. J. H. Kendrick of the Henry County Sheriff's Department. Her husband was outside, lying face up under a pear tree with a shotgun wound in his chest, Kendrick said. A shotgun relatives said belonged to Barker lay "in the area" of his body, but Kendrick declined to say how close the weapon was. Nothing appeared to be missing from the house on Rt. 3 Axton, and no signs of a break-in were found, Kendrick said. Relatives said Mrs. Barker had been for five years an invalid who could not speak and did not recognize anyone or understand what was said. Her husband's health also had been failing, and family members and neighbors speculated that Barker chose to kill both himself and his wife before one could die without the other. "They were very close," said Helen Barker, the dead couple's daughter-in-law. "I think he was afraid he was going to die and leave her." "He looked after her just like she was a baby," said another relative who declined to be identified. "He was in her room every minute, wiping her forehead" and trying to make her comfortable, he added. The couple, married almost 60 years, was so close that relatives said Mrs. Barker showed some signs of recognition when her husband came into her sick room, signs she showed for no one else. "Her eyes would kind of shine more than when any of us was around her," said Helen Barker. Barker had been told by a doctor recently that he was losing weight too quickly, and he also had trouble with his back and eyes, family members said. He also had thought that he and his wife were "too much of a burden" on their children, Mrs. Howerton and R. J. Barker, said Helen Barker. Mrs. Howerton, a widow, had moved here from Norfolk eight years ago to care for her parents, relatives said.

The relative speculated that Barker's failing eyesight prompted him to use a shotgun, rather than a pistol, so he would not merely wound his wife.

"It wasn't no outsider did it," said Helen Barker. Autopsies were scheduled today in Roanoke. The apparent murder-suicide followed Saturday's incident in which at least one witness saw Hobert Perkins, Jr., shoot his estranged wife, Bertha Lee Perkins, 45, before he killed himself at Meadow Garden on Va. 925 east of Martinsville.

Generation 4 (con't)

THE HENRY BULLETIN, Martinsville, Va., Tue., May 17, 1932, p. 1, col. 2 [edited].

Fountain Barker, 35 year old citizen and farmer of the Aiken Summit community, passed away early day morning at his home following internal injuries sustained from an undetermined manner, Friday about midnight, near Irisburg. Barker was found lying in a drunken condition in the highway near True Vine Church Friday night by a passerby and later brought to the county jail and locked up.

His injuries were not known at that time, but the next morning, complaining for internal pains, he was carried to Shackelford's hospital where it was found several ribs were fractured. He was given proper medical attention, and in the afternoon taken to his home, complications setting in, he died the following morning. Civil authorities investigating the matter, advanced the theory that Barker had apparently been stuck by a passing automobile. After being brought to Martinsville, Barker stated that he did not know how he had been injured. Sunday morning, Mrs. Barker, wife of the deceased, swore out a warrant for the arrest of Johnny Jones, son of R. W. Jones of Irisburg, charging him with manslaughter. Funeral services for the deceased were held yesterday afternoon from the late home and interment made in the family burial plot nearby. Barker is survived by his wife and two little children.

The paper dated 5/20/1932, p. 6, col. 2 added the information which follows.

BOXWOOD. The funeral and burial of N. F. Barker, who was hit and run over by a car Friday night and passed away at his home Sunday morning, were conducted by Rev. Hughes of Axton. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nat Barker and was thirty years of age. He was born and reared in this community. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife and two children, age two and nine years, both boys, also his mother and four sisters, Mrs. Mabes of Danville, Mrs. Barker of Figsboro, Mrs. Daniel of Chatham and Mrs. Thornton of Boxwood.

When Elsie died in 1943 her children were left with Eliza until her death in 1946. My mother Ruby was sent to live with Elsie's sister Minne, Ruby was 12. Her half brothers and sister from marriage to Joe Paul Wilson were sent to live with a realitive of the Wilsons. I think it was a woman named Mary .I remember they always talked about her being a (crazy woman). Janice

From "The Knoxville News-Sentinel" by Fred Brown (date stamped on article Feb. 15, 1988)
Brushy Valley man's life is for the birds Clinton- Woody Nance doesn't mind at all. Go ahead. Call him the Birdman of Brushy Valley. It suits him just fine. This time of year, when the ground is as hard as a black heart, Nance is a bird's best friend. He feeds them hundreds of pounds of food during the winter. Nance's feed bill, says his wife, Elizabeth, is something she doesn't want to know about. He says it tops out at about 800 pounds a year. "I feed them enough corn to fatten a hog" is the way he says it. And the birds, all kinds of little wild winged things, repay him with kindness. Let Nance walk out in his back yard with his customary straw hat on his head and his hands filled with sunflower seeds, and finches of all hue, titmice, tiny sparrows, clouds of pine siskins, chickadees and a variety of other birds flock to his shoulders, his head and hands. He becomes Pied Piper of Brushy Valley bird world. They skitter underneath his feet. From this view, Nance, a wisp of a man, must seem like an elephant. He gingerly steps around his flittering friends. They peck away at the cracked corn, without fear of being squashed. He carries them around on his hat and in his hands as if they are made of china and should be exhibited on shelves. They feed in his hands without worry or concern. He pets them and observes them up close. They ride his shoulders and hop to his hat. Nance lives in Brushy Valley a peaceful dip of land in Anderson County where it is so quiet you can hear your thoughts as they pound and circulate. The air is fresh and still along Mountain Road where Nance and his wife live with their friends. As the smaller birds swirl like dark crystals and flash to nearby branches, the larger birds move in for a time at Nance's open table. Bluejays, grosbeaks, doves, cardinals, they all come to dine. "You take the redbird," Nance says to no one in particular. "Now, during this time of year, the pretty red male will run the female off. He won't even let her eat." Nance smiles and looks out of his window as hundreds of birds gather to gorge themselves again on yet another bright morning. "But, in springtime, that old redbird will take his lady friend food," Nance chuckles. "That's just like a man, isn't it?" Nance's birding doesn't stop here. He walks to a row of martin poles. He puts out 46 martin gourds in the spring. Nance, an organic farmer of some note, grows his own gourds. "I have had martins show up as early as late February. They are usually gone by the end of July. "No, I'm never bothered by mosquitoes. My martins take care of that. You can sit out here at night and never feel a bite." But, Nance doesn't stop here. He has his buddies the bats, too. Nance ordered a mail-order home for them and installed it high on a green pole in his back yard. He isn't quite sure when the bats arrive or when they leave, but he is absolutely glad to see them each year. "They come when it gets hot is all I know. Now, a bat will eat about as many if not more mosquitoes than a martin," Nance says. His eyes sparkle like sunlight dancing off Brushy Creek. Nance doesn't stop here. He built a home for his friend, the owl. "Comes back every year," he says with laughter that is wise in tone and mood. Nance doesn't stop here. He built a pond, mainly for his fish. But, a big blue heron, who enjoys dominance over Brushy Creek, stops by the Nance gourmet pond for a few choice delicacies in the evenings. "I call him Big Bird," Nance says, pushing back from his kitchen table. He demonstrates the strange walk of a spindly legged blue heron in action. "When he's in deep water, he looks like this," Nance says, his arms straight and poking like toothpicks underneath his chest. "Now, when that old boy gets in shallow water, he's like this." His arms are bent and low on the table, as if he's about to leap at something. "He never misses what he's after," Nance says. He takes care of his pals in the fish pond in a rather unique way also. He feeds them all the Japanese beetles they can hold. He's rigged a kind of beetlesmorgasbord for his fish in an all-they-can-eat fantasy. Nance rigged a shovel-mouthed soft bottle atop a long pole. He puts beetle bait in the bottle and waits for the beetles to arrive. In the summer when the beetles are at their worst, they hone in on the soft drink bottle trap, slip down the long tube to the waiting froth of Nance's finny friends. The catfish and bream feed like sharks. "When the beetles hit the water, they are long gone." Last year, Nance fed his birds more than 800 pounds of feed. And that's just for four months. He doesn't put out the welcome sigh in the spring. "I don't want the birds to become dependent on me," he says. "I've seen 200 maybe 300 birds out here at one time," says Nance, who won't tell his age, except to say that he was in the lobby of the Ford Theater getting popcorn the day Lincoln was shot. "I enjoy watching and feeding the birds. I like having them around." It is obvious the birds enjoy the company they keep. They flock to the Birdman of Brushy

Story has it once he was driving a truck loaded and the brakes went out and he bailed out.. but the truck only went a little ways and some of the bombs fell off but didn't go off.

Haplogroup Ancient ancestry: The Agrarians

Haplogroup: T

The Agrarians, haplogroup T, emerged around 50,000 years ago in the Near East, not long after the first modern humans left Africa. They likely remained in the Near East until about 15,000 years ago, when the Ice Age ended and Europe was a more desirable place to settle. The Agrarians probably moved into Europe via present-day northern Italy. Today's Syrian, Palestinian and Turkish populations still have notable numbers of Agrarians. The Grand Duke Georgi Romanov and the last Tsar of Russia, Nicholas II, were Agrarians.
